VanEck Pivotal Trends ETF

PIVT

Technological disruption, real assets and debasement protection in a single, actively managed ETF. VanEck handles the selection, the sizing and the rebalancing.

Trends in Focus

Technological Disruption
AI is changing how companies operate and compete. PIVT owns the chipmakers and infrastructure building AI, along with the companies putting it to work.

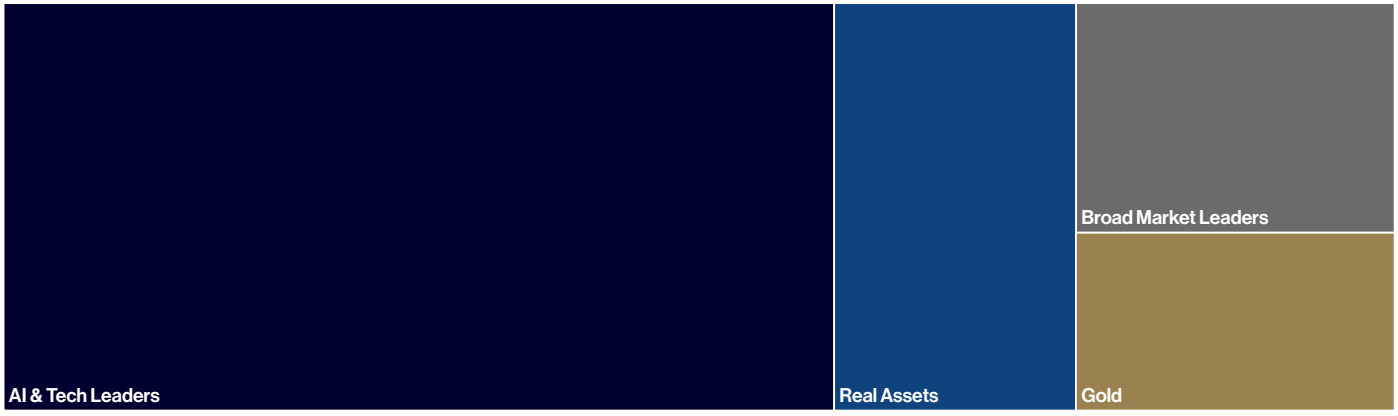

Real Assets
AI and electrification need more power and raw materials than today's infrastructure can supply. PIVT invests in energy infrastructure, nuclear and commodities.

Debasement Protection
Rising debt and inflation can erode a currency's value over time. PIVT holds a mix of debasement hedges, each sized for its volatility.

Why PIVT?

- High-Conviction Investment Themes: Access opportunities across technological disruption, real assets and currency debasement, selected for their potential to benefit from long-term economic and technological change.
- Flexibility Across Markets: Combine individual stocks and exchange-traded products to access opportunities across markets and asset classes, while maintaining an equity-focused portfolio.
- Ongoing Portfolio Management: VanEck selects investments, sizes positions and adjusts exposures over time, using macroeconomic research and quantitative analysis to guide allocation and risk management.

The "Net Asset Value" (NAV) of a Fund is determined at the close of each business day, and represents the dollar value of one share of the fund it is calculated by taking the total assets of the fund, subtracting total liabilities, and dividing by the total number of shares outstanding. The NAV is not necessarily the same as the ETF 's intraday trading value. Investors should not expect to buy or sell shares at NAV.

An investment in the Fund involves a substantial degree of risk and is not suitable for all investors. Investors in the Fund should be willing to accept a high degree of volatility in the price of the Fund's Shares and the possibility of significant losses. An investment in the Fund is not a deposit with a bank and is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. Therefore, you should consider carefully various risks before investing in the Fund, each of which could significantly and adversely affect the value of an investment in the Fund.

An investment in the VanEck Pivotal Trends ETF may be subject to risks which include, among others, risks related to fund of funds, equity securities, foreign securities, emerging market issuers, credit, interest rate, call, commodities, underlying ETPs, digital asset instruments, gold, natural resources companies, derivatives, concentration, depositary receipts, large-capitalization companies, small- and medium-capitalization companies, information technology sector, market, high portfolio turnover, data, cash transactions, operational, active management, authorized participant concentration, seed investor, new fund, no guarantee of active trading market, trading issues, fund shares trading, premium/discount and liquidity of fund shares, affiliated fund, non-diversified, and subsidiary investment risks, all of which may adversely affect the Fund. Emerging market issuers and foreign securities may be subject to securities markets, political and economic, investment and repatriation restrictions, different rules and regulations, less publicly available financial information, foreign currency and exchange rates, operational and settlement, and corporate and securities laws risks. Underlying ETPs may be subject to risks related to equity securities, foreign securities, emerging market issuers, foreign currency, CLO, credit, high yield securities, interest rate, call, sovereign bond, U.S. government securities, commodities, digital asset instruments, gold, natural resources companies, MLPs, BDCs, large-capitalization companies, small- and medium-capitalization companies, derivatives, and concentration risks. Small- and medium-capitalization companies may be subject to elevated risks.

Digital asset instruments may be subject to risks associated with investing in digital assets, directly or indirectly through exchange-traded products ("ETPs"). These risks include the historically extreme volatility of the digital asset and cryptocurrency markets, as well as less regulation and fewer investor protections, as these ETPs are not investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("1940 Act") or commodity pools for the purposes of the Commodity Exchange Act ("CEA").
