VanEck MSCI EM Analyst Sentiment ETF

When sell-side analysts raise earnings estimates, lift price targets, or upgrade ratings, markets don't reprice instantly. Stocks where analyst opinion is most actively improving have historically delivered stronger returns, and the relationship is consistent: the higher the sentiment signal, the stronger the subsequent performance. The funds are designed to capture that pattern systematically.

Analyst Sentiment Exposure-Return Relationship

Source: MSCI. Returns based on MSCI ACWI IMI Index from June 29, 2007, to March 31, 2026. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Index performance is not representative of fund performance. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Quantifying Analyst Sentiment

Analyst revisions across earnings, sales, cash flow, price targets, and recommendations provide a real-time window into changing business momentum. Rather than relying on any single metric, each fund's underlying index equally weights all five inputs to identify companies where professional opinion is broadly improving, not just selectively. The result is a forward-looking signal designed to position the portfolio toward improving fundamentals before they are fully reflected in prices.

The performance data quoted represents past performance. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. Investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor’s shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Performance may be lower or higher than performance data quoted. Please call 800.826.2333 or visit vaneck.com for performance current to the most recent month ended. Periods greater than one year reflect annualized returns.

The “Net Asset Value” (NAV) of a Fund is determined at the close of each business day, and represents the dollar value of one share of the fund, it is calculated by taking the total assets of the fund, subtracting total liabilities, and dividing by the total number of shares outstanding. The NAV is not necessarily the same as the ETF’s intraday trading value. Investors should not expect to buy or sell shares at NAV.
